

O'ROURKE DISMISSED FROM BELLEVUE.

Ordered Peremptorily to Retire by the Charity Commissioners.

Croft and O'Beirne Aver That Shameful Abuses Exist in the Hospital.

Food, Blankets, Clothes and Supplies of Every Kind Wasted Because of Negligence.

MR. FAURE STANDS BY O'ROURKE.

Says That Politics Is Back of the Dismissal—Deputy Rickart in Charge. Complete Reorganization Decided Upon.

After a session lasting from 9 o'clock in the morning until after 5 o'clock in the afternoon the Board of Charity Commissioners dismissed Superintendent W. B. O'Rourke, of Bellevue Hospital, from the service of the department.

The dismissal was the result of a six weeks' investigation into the affairs of the hospital and is only the commencement of a general clearing out of the institution as far as help is concerned that is to take place in the next few days.

The meeting had been adjourned from one on Saturday at which the evidence against the superintendent was carefully reviewed by the Commissioners who were unable to come to a unanimous agreement. The majority adjourned so that Commissioner Faure might have time to think over his refusal to vote for the dismissal of Superintendent O'Rourke.

When the Board met yesterday morning the evidence was again gone over and additional testimony presented to the Board. A recess was taken at noon for an hour, and at 5:15 the doors of the Board room were thrown open and the result was announced.

RICKART IN CHARGE.
The secretary of the Board said that Superintendent O'Rourke had been dismissed and ordered to turn over all property, money and keys of the institution to Deputy Superintendent Michael Rickart. President Croft simply said that the dismissal was made for cause. The day's session had

W. F. O'Rourke, Ex-Superintendent of Bellevue.

He was dismissed yesterday by the Charity Commissioners, who allege that he has been negligent in directing the hospital and has permitted wastefulness in the use of supplies. He says that his discharge is due to political reasons.

an undertaker in a hurry or a man dies at night Maloney gets the job.
FIVE DOLLARS PER TENTH.
A photographer who eats his meals at the institution regularly is not on the payroll. He takes pictures of the unknown dead at $5 per picture. The pictures are the size of the four-for-a-quarter-of-a-dollar Bowery photographs. When not engaged in his job, he is said to take pictures for the physicians of important cases for the museum in the building.

The figures of the waste of material in the culinary department are said to be high. During the month of November last it is reported that forty pounds of tea with meat, bread and vegetables in proportion were used to feed colonized voters.
The alcoholic ward and the way in which patients are treated is another cause of complaint. When a drunken man is brought in he is searched and his effects taken away. A receipt is shoved in his pocket and he is sent to the ward. No system is observed.

In the ward the attendants search the man again. Patients brought in fighting drunk by friends are frequently found badly bruised the next day. The only satisfaction the friends ever get is that he was violent and hit his head on a bed post or rolled out of bed and struck his eye on the floor.

WASTEFUL USE OF STORES.
The goods in the store room, it was found, were given out lavishly. Some inmates known as 5 o'clock citizens, on account of their habit of going out every morning and sweeping out saloons at that hour for a drink, are known to have received five suits of clothes in a month. No return is ever made for the clothes. They may be about the institution, or they may have been put up for drinks in some neighboring saloon.

The lavish use of blankets is another subject that has interested the Commissioner during the investigation. The blanket with a tear in it or a small hole in the corner is condemned by the matron. It is sent to the store room to be exchanged for a new one. The exchange is recorded and the blanket is given out as scrub rag.
The same blanket shows up again and is exchanged again. Blankets to a depth of four or six thicknesses do duty as mattresses and one bad blanket is good for a perpetual exchange for good ones. The opportunity for fraud exists if the fraud itself does not. Blankets cost the city $3.44 a pair, and a mattress of them is worth twice as much as the best hair mattress.

EXPENSIVE FEEDING.
During a year about $2,500 worth of stuff goes into the orderlies' dining room. The cost of feeding an orderly is reckoned at 20 cents a day. All the orderlies' meals, however, come from the doctors' mess, which cost 75 cents a day. The steward has no control over the doctors' mess, and a waitress is boss of everything. She draws her own supplies and sends what she wants to be cooked to the kitchen. The orderlies' food goes to feed friends and the policemen stationed at the institution. Seven policemen feed daily at the institution and one eats table d'hôte meals at the doctors' mess.
Patrolman Banks—prefers to eat his meals at home.
A laundress, who is paid $50 a month and board, does washing at so much a piece for the nurses, and uses the city's labor and material. She has her own room. Her sister used to visit her and spend days eating at the city's expense.

Fifteen convalescent patients, strong enough to roll a barrel, are on the city, and, it is averred, are kept busy acting as valets for the doctors, polishing shoes, running errands and dusting clothes.
It is claimed that the seltzer water used is given away on the slightest provocation. Anybody in the institution can have it for the asking.

Drunkness among the attendants, the investigators found, was common.
President Croft and General O'Beirne both say that O'Rourke's dismissal is the beginning of the reorganization, and that it will take a year to bring the hospital up to a standard that will not be a disgrace to New York. They deny that politics is at the bottom of the removal.

The Medical Board of Bellevue Hospital met last night at the hospital, with Dr. William H. Thompson in the chair. Resolutions were passed condemning the Commissioners of Charities for discharging Superintendent O'Rourke. Among those present were Dr. Abraham Jacoby, J. W. Roosevelt, William M. Pike, Henry T. Loomis, Alexander Lambert, S. H. Marko and Professor Lusk.

SHOT AND KILLED AN AMERICAN
The Superintendent of a Mexican Mine Slays Thomas E. Rickford.
Jimenez, Mexico, March 2.—Thomas E. Rickford, an American, was shot and killed for miles west of here Saturday by Esteban Rodriguez, superintendent of the Aurelio mine. Rickford was employed by an Englishman to investigate and make a report upon the mine with a view to its purchase. Rodriguez refused the expert permission to enter the mine, and when Rickford attempted to go down the shaft he was shot and killed.

Great Losses Reported.
Boston, March 2.—Dispatches from all sections of New Hampshire and Vermont report great damage to property by freshets. Highways are submerged, railroads washed out and traffic badly interrupted. Much anxiety is felt here for the mills along the Merrimack River, for the Boston & Maine Vermont tracks are under water, and all trains have been cancelled for the present. A Washout City, long on the Boston & Maine Railroad at Westminster is reported.
At Burlington the electric light station was obliged to shut down, leaving the city

MILLIONS LOST IN A GREAT DELUGE.

Waters Rising Fast in Many Sections, and Much Apprehension Felt.

Ice Gorges Along the Hudson Compel the Central Road to Abandon Its Tracks.

BABIES AFLOAT IN A BASEMENT.

A Large Percentage of the Bridges in New England Have Been Swept Away and Others Expected to Go—Loss of Life Small.

The effects of the great rainstorm which fell in New York and New England are now being fully realized in the afflicted sections. The loss will reach far into the millions. Streams and rivers are still rising, bridges being carried away, railway tracks washed out and buildings wrecked. Wrecks have been frequent, though no great loss of life has resulted, and traffic on all the Eastern roads is delayed.

Albany, N. Y., March 2.—The Hudson valley from Rondout to Troy has suffered great loss from the flood. There is an ice gorge a few miles above Troy and one near Rondout, and the result has been a backing up of the water, the like of which has not been seen for many years. Over the entire Hudson River watershed there was an average fall of two inches. The water has been pouring from the crests of the Adirondack range into the numerous tributaries of the Hudson and the Mohawk River. For a while it looked as if Albany would be cut off by rail from all directions.

At Fort Plain and St. Johnsville the flood swept over the low embankments on the Erie, flooding the streets of the former village and submerging the four tracks of the New York Central Railroad six or eight inches for a distance of two or three miles. Along the Hudson between here and the town of Hudson, the tracks were impassable and traffic had to be carried on via Chatham. Last night a wind sprang up from the west and blew twenty-six miles an hour and rushed the water ahead of it with tremendous force. An ice gorge in the Mohawk near York's was broken and the small towns on the banks of that stream were much relieved. This wind, which was a gale for some hours, came down the upper Hudson with much force and cleared out several small gorges which had formed. It also helped to open a channel around the gorges below Albany.

As the water rose yesterday morning, policemen went from house to house warning the occupants that the water was rising rapidly and urging them to take what precautions they could against loss of life and property. As the officers neared No. 48 South Ferry street, they heard loud cries of "Help!" The policemen broke down the front door, descended into the basement and saw by the light of a lamp, secured near the ceiling, two women up to their waists in water, a baby floating on a mattress, and a three-year-old child on a bed which had risen with the water.

The women were Mrs. Burns and Mrs. Haak. They were taken out without much difficulty. Mrs. Haak when released said that her mother, Mrs. Mangie, was in the rear of the basement sleeping. The policemen ran around to the rear, broke in the wooden door and gained entrance to the yard. They found Mrs. Mangie clinging to the window sill, the water up to her neck. None of these persons had awakened until the water was three feet deep in the room.
Poughkeepsie, March 2.—A very singular incident occurred at Barrytown last night. The ice wedged itself under a large stone wall on the Donaldson estate below Barrytown station, and when the tide rose the stone wall was lifted bodily on the water and the dwelling. There was two feet of water on the New York Central tracks at Camden, four miles below this city last night, and the heavy cakes of ice which were deposited on the tracks by the high water made it very dangerous for passenger trains. The tide has lowered and no more trouble is expected.

Connecticut Under Water.
Hartford, Conn., March 2.—The east side of the city is submerged, and the river is still rising rapidly. Business has been suspended in the flooded district and many people can only reach and leave their homes by boats.
Now that the last of the temporary bridge between this city and Hartford has gone, public fear is directed to the iron bridge of the New England Road. It sways threateningly, and is being constantly watched by Superintendent Fennell and a large force of men. The ice is piling up against the supports of the bridge, and it does not seem as if it could withstand the enormous pressure. A train of twenty-five empty loaded coal cars has been run out on the bridge on the north side track to give it additional strength.
The steamer Hartford on its first trip of the season from New York arrived this afternoon after a succession of thrilling experiences.
It was reported that a bridge at North Coleridge, Conn., had been swept away. At Avon the highway bridge, spanning the river was swept away with two men who were standing on it watching the flood. They drifted on a floating log nearly a mile distance down the stream and got ashore. Electric car travel between Unionville and Glastonbury was stopped, and travel to Burlington by way of the Bridge, was suspended. The car track was under water for half a mile. The water was so high that it was necessary to travel by team this morning. Travel on the Naugatuck division has been suspended north of Waterbury. It is reported that there are many washouts. In the main bridge across the Pequabuck river—five feet long in Bristol the water was so high that it followed down the railroad embankment and gradually undermined it.

Drowned in the Flood.
Bellevue Falls, Vt., March 2.—The water reached the highest point at midnight, when it was seventeen feet on the dam. Reports of damage outside are beginning to come in. At midnight John W. Kinney of Bellevue Falls, fell from the Boston & Maine bridge above the falls and was carried over and drowned. With three companions from New York they were on the bridge when the darkness, and was pitched through between the stringers on the north side, near the New Hampshire line.

DESERTED HUSBAND AND BABE.
Was Forced to Return and Care for Her Crippled Child.
New Haven, Conn., March 2.—John Furell, of No. 244 Wallace street, has a wife and a deformed child two years old. For two days Furell has missed his wife, and has been left alone with the child. Yesterday Furell visited Police Headquarters and asked that the police hunt up his wife, and make her come back to her baby. The child was taken to a nurse, and Sergeant Crocker placed officers upon the case.

Mary Furell and her companion, Fred Gavetti, were caught at the Starin boat by an officer. The woman's husband would make no complaint against her, and she was not placed under arrest. The policeman advised her to go home and care for her child. Gavetti disappeared in the darkness, after getting back the money he had paid for passage to New York. He told Mrs. Furell that he would not take her with the baby. Mrs. Furell doesn't care to stay with the infant or her husband. She tried a second time to get on the boat, but the ticket agent refused to sell her a ticket.

WARING IN A NEW ROLE.
The Colonel is Going to Save to City $24 Per Day.

The ash scows in the harbor were ordered dispensed with yesterday by the Street Cleaning Department. The United States Government in 1871 designated stations for four ash scows, which were to receive and carry away ashes from steam vessels. These stations were at the foot of West 81st street, Fifth Avenue, Hoboken, Butler, milk Channel and Communipaw. The designation was in compliance with an act of the New York Legislature. Stephen Forshay, a contractor, owned the scows, for each of which the city paid him $9 a day. He was also supposed to be paid by the owners of the steamships from which he took the ashes, and he used the refuse for filling in lots. The Government prohibits the dumping of ashes in the harbor, and owners of vessels say that the action of Colonel Waring places them in an awkward predicament.

Waring's contention is that owners of steamships can send their ashes to any of the city dumps, and the city declines any longer to pay $24 a day for their benefit.

MORPHINE IN SOCIETY.

Three Boston Women Make Wrecks of Their Lives and Are in a Retreat Near Boston.

Boston, March 1.—About five miles from Boston, on the Milton road, is a small dwelling. This house is said to contain three well-known residents of this city, who are secluded there suffering from the habitual use of drugs. They are said to be Mrs. John Smith, aged thirty years, wife of a well-known business man; also Mrs. Smith's mother, Mrs. Anna Barnes, and her young sister, Clara, aged twenty-two.

Several years ago they lived in Milton and were highly respected, and it is said, moved in the best social circles of this city. It is claimed they have been shut in the place three years, and that it is run by two old maids, who make a business of secreting women, endeavoring to cure them of the morphine habit. The inmates are said to be engaged in a fearful struggle with the drug which have wrecked their lives and disgraced the names of those they love.

The house is on the rise of the hill, and the only one who ever goes there is a physician who is a friend of the women.

Mrs. Barnes and her two daughters are said to have been discovered by a former member of the Pinkerton force named Tighe. He has notified the police of this city, and they will investigate. Tighe says the mother is suffering from the effects of laudanum, and that before she went to this house she told the officers she used to drink a pint of laudanum with a pint of whiskey at a time. She has become weak and helpless because she cannot get the drug.

Mrs. Smith's arms are a mass of scars from the needles. At times she becomes frenzied, and begs of the old lady to give her the drug. The younger daughter has been addicted to smoking opium and is also a wreck. Tighe says the screams of the three women when he entered the house were something awful to hear.

ELMIRA BANK CASE SETTLED.
Supreme Court of the United States Renders a Final Decision.

Washington, March 2.—The long standing case of Charles Davis, Receiver of the Elmira National Bank, vs. the Elmira Savings Bank, decided today in favor of the receiver. The case came to the Supreme Court of the United States upon appeal from the New York State Court of Appeals which held that a State statute governed the case, and that the Savings Bank was entitled to have its deposit of $40,000 in the National Bank paid first before other depositors were paid.

Justice White delivered the opinion. He said that the law of Congress, requiring a ratable distribution of the assets of a national bank among the creditors was infringed upon by the State Statute making preferences of savings banks deposits. So far as the infringement extended the State law was invalid against the Federal Statute, and the decision of the Court of Appeals in favor of the savings bank was therefore reversed.

Pope Angry at Prince Ferdinand.
Rome, March 2.—The Pope reacted to Cardinalis today upon the occasion of the anniversary of his coronation. His Holiness, in addressing them, referred in severe terms to Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria and expressed the hope that his selling himself and his son, Prince Boris, would have no influence upon the spread of the faith.

FRENCH AND ARION BALLS IN DANGER.

The Raines Bill Makes No Provision for All-Night Licenses.

Big Gardens Could No Longer Sell Wine and Liquor After 1 A. M.

BUT PLATT MAY MODIFY THIS.

Republican Assemblyman Murphy, Who Has Twenty-six Hotel Keepers to Please, Will Fight the Measure Tooth and Nail.

The proprietors of the different dance halls in the city are greatly worried over the prospect of the Raines Excise bill by the State Legislature. The worst is the result of the discovery that there is no provision made by the bill for all night licenses for such places as Madison Square Gardens, Terrace Garden, Lexington Avenue Opera House and other places of a like character, where public balls are given all the year round.

The failure of the Madison Square Garden company to secure an all night license will be a severe blow to the French and Arion balls, Gotham's chief taperscorean events of the season, as it will be impossible under the proposed law to dispense drinks after 1 a. m. A French or Arion ball where one could not obtain a drink after the magic hour would be a stupid affair, indeed.

Mr. Platt is certain that the bill, as it now stands, will be passed by both houses of the Legislature at an early day, and that Governor Morton will affix his signature as soon as it reaches him.
It was said last night that Assemblyman Murphy, the Republican member from the Twenty-fifth District, would vote against the bill when it reached the Assembly. In Mr. Murphy's district there are twenty-six hotels, and the proprietors are to be seen in arms against the bill. They have informed Mr. Murphy that if he wants any support from them in the future he must consider their interests. He will work against the bill on the floor of the Assembly.

It was learned last night that Mr. Platt is considering the advisability of presenting a supplementary bill to the Legislature which will provide for all night licenses and also remedy one or two other matters. This is by no means certain, however.

Waring Will Be There.
A delegation of citizens, headed by Colonel Asa Bird Gardiner, Assemblyman D. E. Finn, George Blair, Dr. E. P. Turner and Alderman Brown and Kermack will appear before the Mayor this morning to protest against the action of the Street Cleaning Department in dumping snow over the Battery wall. When Colonel Waring was told of the hearing, he said: "I shall attend and make my explanation. I have no idea what their complaint is."
